

EDITORIALS

- 347 Cycling and health: an opportunity for positive change?
Adrian E Bauman, Chris Rissel
- 348 Making sense of differing bowel cancer screening guidelines
Hooi C Ee, John K Olynyk

POSTCARD FROM NEW YORK

- 352 The high cost of drugs in the United States
Jeffrey D Zajac

RESEARCH

- 353 Bicycling injuries and mortality in Victoria, 2001–2006
Mirjana Sikic, Antonina A Mikocka-Walus, Belinda J Gabbe, Francis T McDermott, Peter A Cameron
- 358 Use of gastrostomy tubes in older Western Australians:
a population-based study of frequency, indications and outcomes
Janine Calver, Kieran A McCaul, Melinda Burmas,
Barbara J Horner, Leon Flicker

ACCESS BLOCK

- 362 Access block: it's all about available beds
Daniel M Fatovich, Geoff Hughes, Sally M McCarthy
- 364 Access block can be managed
Peter A Cameron, Anthony P Joseph, Sally M McCarthy
- 369 Myths versus facts in emergency department
overcrowding and hospital access block
Drew B Richardson, David Mountain

- 375 Interventions to circumvent intensive care access block:
a retrospective 2-year study across metropolitan Melbourne
Graeme J Duke, Michael D Buist, David Pilcher, Carlos D Scheinkestel, John D Santamaria, Geoff A Gutteridge,
Peter J Cranswick, David Ernest, Craig French, John A Botha

NEW DRUGS, OLD DRUGS

- 379 The direct factor Xa inhibitor rivaroxaban
Abhishek K Verma, Timothy A Brighton

NOTABLE CASES

- 386 Chromobacterium violaceum endocarditis and hepatic abscesses treated successfully with meropenem
and ciprofloxacin
Ivan WM Lim, Peter J Stride, Robert L Horvath, Christian R Hamilton-Craig, Phi P Chau

VIEWPOINT

- 388 Pertussis prevention and treatment: a call for wider access to azithromycin
Asha C Bowen, Mark J Ferson, Linda V Gaudins, Pamela Palasanthiran

DIAGNOSTIC DILEMMA

- 392 "My foot hurts": a flare of rheumatoid arthritis?
Manish Dugar, Wayne A Rankin, Emily Rowe, Malcolm D Smith

LETTERS

(contents overleaf)

MJA SUPPLEMENT

- 549 Depression and anxiety with physical illness

THE E-HEALTH PERSONAL RECORD

Buried in the bewildering details and proposals of the recent National Health and Hospitals Reform Commission (NHHRC) Interim Report (December 2008) was a simple sentence that stressed the centrality of the personal electronic health record to coordinated health care. Indeed, the Commission's Chairwoman, Dr Christine Bennett, claims: "An electronic health record ... is arguably the single most important enabler of truly person-centred care."^{*} But its utility reaches beyond this. The efficiency and effectiveness of e-health will undoubtedly cut expenditure, as its multiplier effects improve continuity of care, reduce both errors and duplication of services, and ultimately promote health care.

Understandably, both the profession and the public have become increasingly cynical about the continual talk fests generated by federal government commissions and inquiries. As a consequence, the Prime Minister and his Ministers are seen as shadowy figures, hiding behind the seeming busyness of endless inquiries. The resounding image is one of "all talk and no action".

Consider e-health as an example. E-health has been the subject of serious state and federal attention since at least 1993! Add to the NHHRC report the National E-Health Strategy report (also released in December 2008), and it could be said that drowning in reports is all that has been achieved.

Is it not time to stop the talk and walk the talk? The Prime Minister appears to be in search of an infrastructure project that mirrors the iconic status of the Snowy Mountains Hydro-Electric Scheme in Australian folklore. Bringing e-health personal records on stream would be such a project.

Given that we spend about 9.5% of our gross domestic product on health, the cost of instituting such a scheme would be comparatively negligible. Let's settle on a definite delivery date and a dedicated budget for the e-health personal record. Now, that would be an incisive and iconic move forward!

Martin B Van Der Weyden

* Metherell M. Just what the doctors ordered. Sydney Morning Herald 2009; 21 Feb: 9.

LETTERS

Doctor displacement: a political agenda or a health care imperative?

- 396 Guy L Ludbrook, Guy J Maddern
396 Peter M Brooks, Charles A Mitchell
396 Martin B Van Der Weyden

Isoniazid hypersensitivity in a child

- 397 Tony D Merritt, Peter D Massey

Curtain cords and accidental childhood hanging

- 397 Roger W Byard

Health information privacy and patient safety

- 398 Anthony P Morton, Susan E Smith, Peter R Croll, R Michael Whitby

Rational thromboprophylaxis in medical inpatients: not quite there yet

- 398 John P Fletcher, Donald MacLellan, Harry Gibbs, Geoff Matthews

What is the health service for?

- 399 Amanda E James

Effect of smoking among Indigenous and non-Indigenous mothers on preterm birth and full-term low birthweight

- 400 Barry NJ Walters

BOOK REVIEWS

391 Therapeutic guidelines. Toxicology and wilderness.

reviewed by Mark Little

391 Travel medicine. 2nd ed.

reviewed by Deborah J Mills

OBITUARY

368 Frederick Charles Schwarz

Derek H Meyers

SNAPSHOT

390 Black bones: a case of incidental discovery of ochronotic arthropathy

See-Seong Chang, Eugene T Ek, Vicki Pliatsios

346 IN THIS ISSUE

394 IN OTHER JOURNALS

Cover image courtesy: A/Prof Drew Richardson, Emergency Department, Canberra Hospital.